

A Computer is a machine that can store information. It uses this information to do tasks. This information is of different kinds. It can be made up of words, numbers, images, and videos.

Computers around us:

Desktop Computers:

These types of computers have separate parts. They are kept on desks or tables. These computers are difficult to move and carry around.